In 1970, FIDE adopted Elo's system for rating current players, so one way to compare players of different eras is to compare the Elo ratings. The book "Chess: 2500 to 2000" by Graham Brown lists Edward S. Tinsley 1869-1937, a British player who is considered one of the best players of his time. He scored below 2600 and had his best tournament in 1895, when he tied with Lasker and won. (718)

FIDE Ratings and Statistics

Maxime Vachier-Lagrave (also known as "MVL") is a French super grandmaster who, since 2016, has spent plenty of time around the top 10. His peak rating in 2016 was 2819, making him the seventh-highest rated player in history. He took a long time to stabilize his rating system and has had some points around the validity of the system.
